

Making Great Places

2020 Programme

Making great places lies at the heart of what we do. Our programme for 2020 will give you the insights, knowledge and networks to empower you to make your city, your town your community a great place.

From new ways to create resilient and thriving local communities, to bringing to life the cultural fabric of a place and better ways to collaborate and use technology. Join us on the journey to making every place a great place. Highlights include:

Creating Resilient, Regenerative, and Thriving Communities

masterclasses and forums tailored to your community with global thinker, new age economist, attorney, and author, Michael Shuman.

Cultural and Place – masterclasses and forums on how to map, forecast and bring to life cultural fabric, intuitions and places with curator, educator, and strategist, David van der Leer, Principal at DSDL Design Decisions.

ANZ Domestic Exchange – the 2020 Exchange takes us on a journey across Australia and New Zealand where we will experience, learn and be inspired by places and place practitioners. Joining us is Mathew Dalbey, Director, Office of Community Revitalization, US Environmental Protection Agency.

Business, Cities and Climate Change – climate change is impacting all aspects of our lives, from how we work, invest, and travel to how we conduct business, source products through supply chains, and manage cities. Business, government and urban leaders discuss impact and actions.

Urban Leaders Boardroom Lunch Series – decision-makers in government, industry and academia come together with guest speakers to discuss and share insights on critical topics affecting cities including ways to create social infrastructure, enhance civic institutions, build local resilience, and govern collaboratively.

Digital Engagement – making great places also happens through our digital platforms. Build and share information and ideas through our Knowledge Centre, talk Cities Podcast and Crew Webinars, and place practitioner are invited to join the Australasian Place Network.
